San Diego Police Department officers from Mid City Division working with TASER International will be testing head-mounted audio/ video cameras in a pilot project lasting sixty days. Nine officers will be involved in the project.

This system provides a permanent audio/visual perspective of what was said and done during contact with the public. The camera is about the size of a Bluetooth earpiece with a headband and the recording device the size of a large cell phone.

Time will be provided for interviews and photo opportunities.
